KUHL RECEIVES BUSINESS AWARDS

CHARLESTON -- Emily Kuhl, daughter of Kip and Joanne LeFever of Olney and Philip Kuhl of Newton, is the recipient of the Bert and Janet Holley Scholarship and the Clay/Richland Scholarship from Eastern Illinois University's Lumpkin School of Business and Applied Sciences.

The Holley scholarship, established in 1990, is awarded to a transfer student who has already earned an associate degree from an Illinois community college and has come to Eastern seeking a business degree.

Professor Bert Holley joined Eastern's faculty in 1946 and retired in 1987. He received the first College of Business Professor of the Year Award and in 1991, an honorary doctorate of humane letters degree. His wife Janet is an Eastern graduate. She joined Eastern as academic advisor in 1968. In 1987, she became director of community college relations. She retired from that position in 1990.

A 1993 graduate of East Richland High School, Kuhl transferred to Eastern from Olney Central College. She is a senior accounting major.
